The Challenges

I can't add headcount so I need contractors for a testing project NOW!

We need a partner that offers flexibility and expertise in staffing all the roles I need...

I have little time to hire people with the exact skills I need!

Our projects span every continent and time zone. I need people who are adept in localization staffing with deep industry knowledge.

Who can help me with the global hiring and really understand the regional hiring process?

The Solution: WeStaffing

OurStory

Our first word translated was pathfinder. A billion words later, we are path creators. It started with one word. One word that initiated a chain reaction, advancing the way translation services were delivered forever after. That word was pathfinder.

The path we found for ourselves is Welocalize. A company of over 1000 employees in 21 offices located in the USA, UK, Ireland, Italy, Germany, China, Japan, Poland, Spain, Hungary and Romania Since 1997, we've been breaking new ground in translating communications around the world. This calls for exploring different cultures, experimenting with advanced technology, and collaborating with customers so we can translate what's between the lines, as well as, what's on the page.

It also demands a well-tended company culture. One that empowers people, encouraging them to use the right side of their brains as well as the left. Our staff is not only brilliant and dedicated, but obsessed with efficiency and personally committed to providing professional, high-quality translations. And since our managers know that people who like what they do, work harder and more effectively than those who don't, we treat our team like the innovative rock stars they are. As a result they stay with us longer and our clients enjoy working with them as much as we do.
